Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, as seen through the eyes of the national commander of the American Legion, Daniel J. Doherty, who visited Santa Ana Post No. 131, as an honored guest, is threatened by a subversive force insidiously weakening the national structure—otherwise the constitution of the United States. An aroused national conscience is necessary to defeat the forces striking at the heritage of our forefathers.

Several hundred Legionnaires and guests listened attentively to National Commander Doherty tell his comrades that while the World War was over, the war for the perpetuity of the last citadel of democracy was on with increasing fervor, and lovers of home and law and liberty must establish sentries of protection if this nation is to endure another 150 years as the home of the free and the land of the brave.

Pollution of educational streams intended to inoculate the youth was condemned. Arbitrary discrimination against veterans who reach the age of 40, came in for emphatic denunciation. Offending Legionnaires not only in time of war but in times of peace, their response to human distress, their stalwart citizenship, and a reliable and effective defense against multiple agencies antagonistic to all that Americans hold dear and sacred.

What Doherty said has been said before. His purpose was to arouse lethargic citizens to impending dangers. Everything would not be all right if it were not for the fact that the nation were not alert to keep it right.

In this uninvited nation of ours it is hard to believe that the seed of sedition is being sown in the garden of faith. That is why it is so difficult to get an aroused sense of danger. We go into and out of our homes with unrestrained freedom, engage in conversations with friends without fear of eavesdropping by some secret agency ready to prepare our exit before a firing squad. Kings and queens in our own right, we are going to forfeit these cherished privileges, says Commander Doherty, unless the danger is not only sensed but crushed.

To my mind one of the damnable economic theories is that men of forty have been listed as obsolete, irrespective of their experience, intellectual ability and physical value. The national commander hit at this unjust imposition against Legionnaires. To use a man for national protection, and then discard him when it came time to economically reward him, was an attitude incompatible with American tradition and human compensation.

Trouble with Doherty's talk, and other messages of similar character, is that the fellows who hear them do not need them. However, that isn't the speaker's fault. Better be said to those who approve than not to be said at all for out of warnings there filters through some parts of the messages which will arouse thought and cause investigation. It should be apparent by this time to the most casual citizen that there is too much wrong not to have some basis of actuality. It is time to prove all things, to hold fast to that which is traditionally sound and equitable.

It seems to me that "God and country" is a pretty safe and sure foundation on which to place our faith and lay the foundations of contented citizenship. Those are the chief cornerstones of the American Legion. How strong is your faith, and how much you love your country will be revealed in your citizenship. Against unjust encroachments men have always fought—they always will.

The sidelights of the Doherty visit disclosed how firmly he is respected and trusted by his comrades. "Buddies" are not misled in their evaluation of a man. What the Santa Ana Legionnaires think of the national commander is (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Expert Bad Man Breaks Safe; Gets $147 Cash

The office strongbox apparently blasted open by a big hammer, L. D. Coffing's auto sales company, 311 East Fifth street, was looted of $147 in cash and $13 in stamps sometime over the week-end, attendants discovered last night. The big fireproof vault was opened by knocking off the combination and adjusting the tumbler, police said. They attributed the burglary to a professional "who knew what he was doing."

DOPE THIEF LOOTS CARS

Steals Morphine From Orange Doctors

Police in Orange today were seeking a morphine thief who ransacked cars of two physicians, stealing their instrument and medicine bags late last night.

While Dr. Paul Rumph parked his car at St. Joseph's hospital, someone stole his bag, containing a small amount of morphine, he told police. At about the same time, a thief took a similar bag containing about $4 worth of morphine from the car of Dr. C. J. Paul, parked in his garage at 232 South Olive street, he told police. Dr. Paul's bag later was found on East 20th street, Santa Ana, with the morphine missing.

Mrs. Howard Gilmore, 429 South Olive street, Orange, told police her house had been thoroughly ransacked by a burglar Sunday afternoon. About $10 in cash was missing, she said. Police also were seeking a car thief who took Oscar Stutheit's automobile, parked in front of his home early Sunday morning.

"Here is goodbye," read the note. "I love you more than I know how to tell you."

DIVORCE ACTION ENDS IN NAUGHT

The sensational divorce trial of Florence C. and James Cardwell, heard in superior court here last week, today had come to naught. Both parties were denied a divorce by Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

Judge Ames' decision referred to a sharp conflict in evidence and to "malodorous details of the testimony," in holding that both Mrs. Cardwell and her husband, Santa Ana fireman, had established a cause of action against each other, thereby barring both from decrees. He set aside a $700 property settlement which Mrs. Cardwell attacked.

Where School Boys Reach For Clouds

The air was filled with kites, and the grounds at Fremont school were filled with pupils as the school celebrated its 15th annual kite day last Friday. High winds prevented many of the kites from getting off the ground, but the sturdier ones took advantage of the stiff breeze and soared to unprecedented heights. Kite day got under way when 300-odd youngsters lined up in a hollow-square (below) to have their entries, ranging from less than an inch to more than six feet in length, judged for originality, size, beauty and coloring.

Dominant Figure in World War Succumbs

NEW YORK, (AP)—Colonel House's physicians said several weeks ago that he was "failing steadily" and that death was only a matter of time. He was suffering from a complication of ailments, and only last week had another relapse.

Only members of his family, including his widow, were with him when he died. His daughter, Mrs. Gordon Auchincloss, and her husband also were there.

For many years, Colonel House was active in affairs of the Democratic party. He climaxed this activity when he became the personal representative of President Wilson to European governments in 1914, 1915 and 1916.

In 1917, President Wilson appointed Colonel House to gather and organize data to be used at the peace conference, and he served as special representative of this country at the inter-allied conference of premiers and foreign ministers, held in Paris, Nov. 29, 1917, to effect a more complete coordination of the activities of the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

'Carrie Nation' Antics of Cat Create Havoc

BEVERLY HILLS, (AP)—A beautiful gray Angora cat caused about $200 damage in the exclusive Somerset House club early today, leaping around on shelves and playing havoc with fancy liquor displays.

Bottles of champagne and other expensive potables were knocked over like bowling pins. And nobody could catch the cat—not even two radio patrolmen and two sheriff's deputies summoned by employees. The cat finally leaped out a window and disappeared.

SILVER DROPS ONE CENT

U. S. Stops Buying Metal From Mexico

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The treasury reduced today from 45 to 44 cents per ounce its price for foreign produced silver.

The reduction was the first change in the treasury's price for foreign silver in nearly two years, and followed a break of slightly more than a cent in the London silver market today because of fears that the United States decision to discontinue purchases of Mexican silver might presage an abandonment of its stabilizing line. ## FRANCO'S REBELS CONTINUE DRIVE TO SUBDUE LOYALISTS

Italy Warns France Against Intervention For Cause of Government; More Bombings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Backed by an Italian warning to France to attempt no eleven-hour resue of the Spanish republican government, insurgent troops were pouring into Catalonia today through a breach in Barcelona's "emergency" line of defense. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's land and air forces, chopping at the northeastern remnant of government territory, were rapidly reducing the republic's scant quarter of Spain and threatening to wipe it out altogether.

comparable to the esteem in which he is held in our American Legion posts. His visit here, while patriotic and inspirational, had other ramifications in the coming national convention to be held this year in Los Angeles.

The value of the American Legion and Auxiliary locally was attested in the recent flood. What these organizations did in time of distress is indicative of the same service they bestow wherever danger to life and property appears. Too many people are forgetting but a military purpose in the Legion. That is the last resort of its activities. It's a fighting organization, yes, in defense of country. It is a fighting organization always in response to human appeals, alleviation of suffering, contribution to civic and national welfare, and today stands at the peak of its national influence.

Patriotism is not fetish. It is real and as necessary as your daily bread. When you minimize its duty to God and country, the outlook is as dark as the lowering clouds which preceded nations now forgotten.

malicious statements against other officials. West sat quietly at the counsel table with Hervey and McKinney. Preston Turner, attorney for the state, is prosecuting. Spectators included "Capt." Don Wilkie of Laguna, candidate for sheriff; W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana attorney and candidate for Mayor; Superior Judge James L. Allen; Sheriff Logan Jackson, target of West's blasts; and Mrs. West, recently recovered from an operation.

IN JURY BOX

Among those in the jury box were: Mrs. Margaret Colvin, Huntington Beach; F. W. Meisel, 606 North Garvey, Santa Ana; Grace P. Chase, Costa Mesa; W. S. James, 1216 West Third, Santa Ana; George C. Perkins, 2415 Riverside drive, Santa Ana; William A. Dolan, Buena Park; Genevieve Lacy, 705 South Broadway, Santa Ana; Walter H. Spiker, Costa Mesa; Carl N. Sanborn, Orange; Clara Holland, Yorba Linda; Mrs. Dolan Hansen, Laguna Beach and Frank E. Elsworth, Newport Beach. All but Elsworth had been accepted "for cause" and can be excused only on peremptory challenges.

Hazel E. Dane, 904 North Flower street, Santa Ana, was excused "for cause" when she said, "I am a member of the jury."

Mrs. Clara Gordon Richmond, mother of City Atty. Gordon X. Richmond of Orange, was excused by Hervey on a peremptory challenge, and Menton used his first peremptory challenge to excuse Henry Bashford, 2119 Bush street, Santa Ana.

Mrs. Colvin, wife of a Huntington Beach gasoline chemist, was asked "for cause" for the attorneys' questions. Other jurors were asked later if their answers would be the same, and answered "yes."

As matters stood at noon, each side had nine more peremptory challenges to exercise without attorneys' having to state their reason.

Indications West may attempt to differentiate between his official and unofficial conduct as a defense were seen in McKinney's remarks.

He and Hervey both emphasized the court's ruling that guilt must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt for conviction, and termed the grand jury's accusation "a scrap of paper until the case is proven."

Hervey also asserted the defense was "prepared to prove" all statements made by West about public officials.

Jurors were asked if they knew Assessor James Sleeper, Coroner Earl Abbey, Sheriff Jackson or Auditor W. T. Lambert, target of West's blasts.

They admitted reading about West's activities in the newspapers, but denied having formed opinions.

Following an hour's examination of Mrs. M. Colvin by the defense, Menton drew a chuckle from the spectators when he said: "There's very little left I can think of to ask."

Juror Dolan was asked by Hervey if he and Coroner Abbey had not gone on a note together. He answered negatively, and remarked: "I did those things in the East—but not in California and no more hereafter!"

Workers from one mine invaded another of the company's holdings and fighting ensued. An explanation of the trouble was not immediately available. None of the British staff was injured and the property suffered no serious damage.

MOB FORCES MAYOR TO QUIT

CIUDAD OBREGON, Sonora, Mexico, (AP)—Federal troops took over this city of 10,000 and proclaimed martial law today after an infuriated mob of several hundred Agrarians forced the resignation of Mayor Felix Verdugo.

Verdugo, considered unsympathetic to the Agrarian movement, was served with an ultimatum Saturday to resign or a general strike would be called. He refused and laborers throughout the city quit work, closing rice and flour mills, the electric plant and several business houses. These plants were closed a week ago when workers joined Agrarians in a march on the city hall.

Verdugo and other members of his administration sought refuge in the home of Mrs. Moreno Almada, mother of Governor Ramon Yocupicio of Sonora. Several hundred Agrarians and strikers gathered and threatened to burn the house unless the mayor resigned. When oil soaked wood was stacked against the house, Verdugo announced his resignation.

$200,000 Hotel Fire in Canada

MONTREAL, (Canadian Press)—Fire raged up through the $200,000 Corona hotel early today, driving about 75 scantily clad guests into the cold and causing injuries to six persons.

Firemen hunted through the charred shell of the hotel when the flames had been subdued to make sure that all occupants had been aroused in time to escape.

They played water on the blaze for seven hours before it could be controlled. An adjoining structure, a combined theater and tavern, also burned. Three firemen were injured.

Blum Faces Strike Of Steel Workers

PARIS, (AP)—Thirty thousand metal workers remained on strike today despite appeals of people's front leaders for industrial peace. Blum already was facing senate revolt over his financial program.

The question came up when the department of social welfare began to get back cancelled checks from state relief recipients. Some of them were endorsed in Chinese. The attorney general said there was no reason why a signature in Chinese characters should not be considered just as valid as one written in English.

CRASH VERDICT IS APPEALED

Trial of a justice court appeal over an accident near Anaheim almost two years ago was scheduled to begin in superior court this afternoon.

Howett sued Huit, then took a decision by Justice Charles Kuchel of Anaheim, denying damages in a suit for $246.95 against W. E. Huit over an accident at Artesia boulevard and Western avenue April 24, 1935.

Howett, then took a default judgment when Huit failed to appear. Huit succeeded in having the judgment set aside, and filed a cross-complaint for $333.54 against Howett, charging he was to blame for the crash. Judge Kuchel denied either side damages, and Howett appealed.

CONGRESS GETS HUNGARY WAR DEBT PLEA

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt sent to congress today, without recommendation other than for "most careful consideration," Hungary's proposal for settlement of its debt to the United States.

Hungary offered last Feb. 23 to pay the debt, arising from post-war relief aid, "100 cents on the dollar," but asked to be freed of obligations to pay any interest.

The original debt was $1,685,000. Hungary has paid $478,000 in principal and interest and proposed that this be deducted, leaving the total obligation $1,207,000, to be paid in 30 annual, non-interest bearing installments.

Mr. Roosevelt told congress: "I believe the proposals of the Hungarian government should receive the most careful consideration of the congress. They represent a noteworthy wish on the part of the Hungarian government to meet its obligations to this government."

"In its simplest terms, the offer of the Hungarian government is to repay to the United States the whole of the relief loans and effort of the Hungarian government to meet its obligations to this government."

The president, apparently having in mind the opposition some congressmen have expressed to the Hungarian debt proposal on the grounds it would serve as a precedent for larger debts, added:

"It has of course been the consistent policy of the United States to consider each debt in the light of the circumstances of the debtor government and it is with this in view that the Hungarian communication is transmitted to the congress."

Church Groups Join for Party

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text was from the Psalmist: "They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth for ever."

A Bible section in the Lesson-Sermon included these verses from Matthew: "And Jesus departed from thence, and came night unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there. And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them."

The words of the Psalmist were also cited: "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saying health among all nations." The words of the Psalmist were also cited: "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saying health among all nations."

One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "The basis of all health, sinlessness, and immortality is the great fact that God is the only Mind; and this Mind must be not merely believed, but it must be understood."

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

Roy J. Webb, as their candidate. In other words if the Republicans play ball with us we will reciprocate by playing ball with them. But, in the meantime, this column wants it understood that it is not advocating any joining the Republican party until after the Republican convention.

Go ahead and sign the petition for a Townsend party and establish the new party through the petition method as such will not interfere with your becoming a member of the Republican party later if it seems best for the Townsend interests.

A special Townsend National Recovery Plan bulletin on March 24 has been issued by Dr. Townsend and is now in the mails to all clubs of the 19th district. As will be noted when read before the Let this writer make plain that Townsendites are not asked to register as Republicans until after the Republican convention has been held in Riverside on April 23. We will wait until it is known what attitude the convention takes relative to endorsing Roy J. Webb as a candidate on the Republican ticket before changing our party affiliation to the Republican party.

If he is endorsed by the convention, then the plan is to call a Townsend convention and have the Townsendites also endorse him. Then afterwards put on a drive to get all Townsendites into the Republican party so they could vote for Mr. Webb as a candidate in the Republican primaries for congressmen.

If they become Republicans at all it will be because of encouragement given them by the Republicans through an endorsement of the well-known and liked National Townsend Representative, clubs, it is certain that Dr. Townsend wants Mr. Webb to become the Republican candidate for congress from this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington Irving Orth, 919 Minter street, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow. They are members of Club No. 10 and their daughter, Mrs. Edith L. Paul of the same address is its president. They have been residents of Santa Ana for the past 14 years. Friends are invited to call from 3 to 5 tomorrow afternoon at the family home.

A letter to the column by Attorney George Varum, La Habra, tells of the wonderful time enjoyed by the Townsend club of that place last Monday evening when a complimentary dinner was held in honor of the 30 business people who joined the club. He says 125 people were at the tables and that afterwards "Col. Ralph D. Horton gave a masterly analysis of the principles of the Townsend plan to an audience that completely filled the auditorium of the Masonic hall where the affair was held. Madam Mamie Stark of Los Angeles was present as soloist and delighted her hearers as usual. This club meets again tonight at 7:30 in the Masonic hall.

Ed E. Felt, Los Angeles, former state area manager in this district, will be the speaker for the Garden Grove Club No. 1 at its meeting, 7:30 tonight, at Anaheim Legion hall. Previous to the meeting, a pot-luck dinner will be held at 6:30 o'clock.

J. I. Barber, president of Santa Ana Club No. 12, is on the job again as reporter to this column, which assures this club's meetings being given proper publicity. At 7:30 tonight the club will meet in the community building at Santa Ana Gardens located on the Diamond school grounds. After the business session, chili and beans will be served free. A delegation from Santa Ana Club No. 5 will join in the good time expected.

Santa Ana Club No. 2 is meeting for a business session at 7:30 this evening in Santa Ana Townsend hall with Pope R. Long, president, in charge.

RAMBLING
ORANGE COUNTY
—with—
T. N.
(BRICK)
GAINES

Lotsa fun Saturday. I spoiled Ernie Garner's day for him! As almost everybody knows, Ernie is a very prominent Fullerton policeman.

But I'm one of the few who knows that he also has a secret vice. He tries to keep it quiet. He is a croaker fisherman, than which there is no more fanatic. Ernie spent about all of his spare time last year on the banks of Newport bay, angling for his favorite fish.

Anyway I called him Saturday. Told him the croaker were biting and being caught by the dozens. There was a muffled shriek and a sound as of a body falling. Nobody answered the phone, until finally Desk Sergeant John Gregory picked up the receiver. Nope, he said, Ernie hadn't fainted. He'd just knocked a chair over in a mad rush out the door and toward home to get his fishing pole!

And then John told me about the Ike Waltons' Outdoor show next week-end in Fullerton.

The Ike's all admit this year's event is going to outdo the last two in all departments. Better exhibits of house trailers, fishing equipment, guns and camping stuff. More outdoor events, like fly-casting by National Champion Dick Miller of Huntington Beach, and shooting by famous pistol teams.

John even admitted he's going to enter a bow and arrow affair, and not dressed as cupid, either!

Honestly, if you like outdoor stuff, make plans to attend that show. It's free and you'll get all sorts of entertainment throughout both Saturday and Sunday. C'mon!

My good friend Marion Speer, the collector-man from Oceanview, drops into the office.

He had a bad cold id his head, but otherwise was feeling fine, although somewhat puzzled.

His Western Trails museum, where he exhibits all sorts of early-day collections, is becoming more famous every day. It's now appearing on two different maps, one from a hand and one a chamber of commerce.

But what puzzles Friend Speer is the fact that officials from both organizations never have seen his place!

He thinks—and I agree with him—that they should drop around and get an eyefull!

Huntington Beach has been in mourning for the past week. At least, the fire department has.

Because "Foamite" is dead. "Foamite" was the egg-shaped little pit bull mascot of the department. She always rode the truck to fires. She even slept in the seat of the fire truck, so as to be on hand in case of an emergency.

She ran in front of a car the other day. Now there isn't any more "Foamite," and I sympathize heartily with the firefighters.

My pal Stan Wilson, the Orange News guy who's nuts about boats, went galloping around his town the other day and gathered a number of unusual facts, including a number of asserted discrepancies in Orange. Read him:

Didja know that Mrs. J. C. Huscroft makes rugs for a hobby, and does a first class job of it . . . that you can stand on your head, look to the north with your feet facing the south, and still can read the street marker at the southwest corner of Shaffer and Grand — the "400 block East Maple" sign apparently coming under the classification of unfinished business . . . that a barber shop conversation yesterday, involving Tom Bowen, Charlie Goode and Vern Jenkins, dealt with chin-chillas—something you often hear about but seldom buy . . . that a year ago today Cal D. Lester assumed office as justice of the peace . . . and C. W. Thornburg suggested the Water companies fill up dry wells instead of letting so much water waste into the ocean—the rain total having reached 27.45 inches the day before.

OCEANVIEW TO ORGANIZE OWN CIVIC GROUP

OCEANVIEW.—Businessmen of Oceanview will have their own chamber of commerce if present plans materialize. The local chamber will handle local projects, while those of a more general nature will be taken care of through the Huntington Beach, Midway City or Westminster chambers.

When plans are completed, a mass meeting will be held with both guests and local speakers giving their views and suggestions.

Razed by flames were an automotive agency, a restaurant, a furniture store and offices of the Red Cross and the flood relief agency recently established here.

Firemen saved adjoining buildings from all but minor damage. The burned building was owned by J. Dale Gentry, former member of the State Fish and Game commission. It had a 200-foot front on downtown street and was three stories in height.

SWAIN, N. Y., (AP)—Lyle Swain reported today that a hitch-hiking hen which stole a ride in a feed rack on the rear of his car, left an egg to pay for the trip.

Tomorrow Is the Big Day for the Big Circus

Did you ever see Spring walking? Here's some of the component parts to be seen tomorrow in Santa Ana with the Al G. Barnes and Sells Floto Combined Circus, which, of course, anyway you look at it, is part and parcel of spring. The big show that will give an afternoon and night performance at the South Main and Pomona avenue grounds brings with it 1000 new wonders. Here's a few of them. Many unusual treats are in store for circus fans today. Among them are such European importations as the Rieffenack Troupe of riders from Germany and the Yon Kam troupe from China. They'll supply enough thrills to last well into the summer. Mabel Stark, world's only woman lion and tiger subjugator is back also. She has, this season, the greatest act of her career. Thirty snarling spitting "cats" perform for her. The menagerie boasts 1000 furred and feathered creatures. All summed up it spells circus day.

DOTS AND DASHES AND

It's "swing time" on the University of Oregon campus, where the "maestri" G. A. (Tex) Oliver and Ralph (Bill) Cole of Santa Ana and Tustin coaching fame, are employing the metronome to give the Webfoot backs the proper rhythm.

Known to every piano student, the metronome sounds its "click-click" as the Oregon backs rehearse their footwork, shifting to the metrical beat as Oliver and Cole of the new regime crack the whip over some 50 charges.

That "click-click" sounds good to "Tex" and Bill, but it won't be sweet music to the ears of Pacific Coast conference rivals next fall. It's unfortunate that Oregon's new-deal eleven doesn't show in the Coliseum next season, but Orange county fans are looking forward to seeing the Webfeet against both U.S.C. and U.C.L.A. in Los Angeles in '39.

Don Johnson, rangy son of the Boston Red Sox scout, Ernie Johnson of Santa Ana, whaled a home run in the eighth to aid the Hollywood Stars in their 8-2 triumph over Seattle at El Centro yesterday. Young Johnson first stepped into the baseball spotlight as a crack first baseman under Coach Clyde Cook at Santa Ana Jaycee in '31.

It was the "world at its worst" for Jack Robertson, the Huntington Beach golfing wizard, during the Santa Ana Country club's recent golf match with San Diego. Robertson carried an eagle, a birdie and a par on the first three holes, yet was one down to his San Diego rival at that point. His opponent shot an eagle and two successive birdies. Robertson, however, went on to earn a perfect 72 or the 18 holes.

BATTING SLUMP HITS YANKS

Short Short Sport Flashes

By SID FEDER

(Pitch Hitting for Brietz)

NEW YORK. (P)—Hey, Joe McCarthy. Those Yankees of yours are beginning to look like National leaguers. Good pitching, good fielding, but they aren't hitting hard enough to bust a bubble. Looks like it's almost time to give Joe DiMaggio the "come home, all is forgiven" sign.

Tommy Farr and Eileen Wenzel won't have the knot tied till they get back to London. National Hockey league governors are getting tired of hearing the Stanley cup called "that old battered mug." They tell you $1000 has been paid out to keep it in shiny shape.

Cardinals will have a band playing at week-end and holiday games this season. How about Pepper Martin's Mudeats, Mr. Braden? Who said the Dodgers were different this year? Fifteen errors in eight grapefruit games looks like the same old daffiness boys from here.

Umps Bill McGowan dropped 45 pounds with a new diet this spring. Based on celery, no less. What's this talk about Henry Armstrong and Pedro Montezano fighting in Los Angeles this summer? Wait! How tell you what's wrong with the National league in the new Satty-Eve-Post, out tomorrow. Dutch Reuther.

Gus Suhr Recovers From Hero Worship

SACRAMENTO. (P)—Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh Pirate first sacker, is recovering from too much hero worship. Hundreds of residents of his home town of Millbrae shook hands with him yesterday morning and Suhr stayed out of the Bucks game with Oakland. He scored one of three Pirate runs in the afternoon game with San Francisco, however.

Sidney Wood Wins At Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS. (P)—Sidney Wood, 26-year-old veteran of international tennis campaigns, is the new champion of the Palm Springs Invitational tournament. His game accurate and powerful, Wood defeated Jack Tidball in the finals of the men's singles yesterday, 8-6, 6-1.

Women's Free Night Slated For Wrestling Thursday

Assured of a rematch Thursday night at the Orange County Athletic club between Marshall Carter and Bob Montgomery, fans of this section today also were virtually assured of seeing "Tiger" McKee, former heavyweight wrestler, perform as third man in the ring.

One thing is certain, Promoter Bud Levin announces a referee other than Herb Stegman will handle the return bout. Levin was to confer with state athletic commission officials today concerning the referee assignment. McKee is the man desired by the Orange county promoter.

Levin also announced that a women's free night would be held Thursday, which means that all women will be admitted free to any section of the arena, except for state and federal tax when accompanied by a person making a cash purchase of a ticket. Tickets

ONE OR TWO FLASHES

Amateur boxing DEFINITELY will be brought to the Orange County Athletic club arena not later than the third week in April—next month, you know!

Norman Boissereau, one of the best pitchers ever developed at Fullerton J. C. and Woodrow Griffith, second baseman, have left their home town, La Habra, by auto, to accept positions with a baseball club at Panama City, Canal Zone. Willard Hershberger, who ranks with Arky Vaughan as the two greatest prospects ever molded by Fullerton High coaches, is in line for the No. 1 catching spot with the Cincinnati Reds. He pastimed last year with the pennant-winning Newark International league club, controlled by the New York Yankees. Vaughan, great shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will appear in the Pirates' lineup against Portland's Coast league Beavers at Fullerton Thursday afternoon.

The usual 40-cent admission for adults will be abandoned for the Portland-Pittsburgh series to meet the demands of Pirate officials, who have insisted that adults be charged 75 cents for the "Arky Vaughan Day" game. However, R. A. Scheffer, vice president and business manager of the Portland club, has announced for a 25-cent admission for all grammar school and high school students. Student body cards must be presented as identification.

Look for an important announcement any day now from Melvin (Bud) Levin, the Orange County Athletic club promoter. It concerns wrestling as well as amateur boxing!

Mrs. Blair, Blakemore Capture Net Crowns

JACOBS LOSES IN TENNIS CLUB FINALS

Mildred Ward Bows In Women's Round

Introducing the king and queen of Santa Ana's tennis courts—Robert (Red) Blakemore and Mrs. Walter Blair, the former Marjorie Lauderback! Blakemore, one of the best racket-wielders ever developed at Santa Ana High school, called on everything in his bag of tricks to defeat a Saint teammate, scrappy Marvin Jacobs, in three hard-fought sets in men's finals, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5. Jacobs eliminated Gilmore Ward in semi-finals, with comparative ease, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2.

Mrs. Blair, after encountering stubborn resistance in the first set, 6-4, blanked her veteran foe in the second, 6-0, to annex the women's singles championship from Mrs. Gilmore Ward.

All matches were conducted on the Santa Ana High school courts under the direction of Gordon Knight, new tournament manager of the Santa Ana Tennis club.

Knight is seeking an inter-club match for next week-end.

Present-Day Hurlers Too Soft---Toney

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (P)—Soft living is robbing present-day major league pitchers of their chances to equal the feats of the old timers, say big Fred Toney, National league mound ace of two decades ago.

"Pitchers today don't do as much as they should," he claims, "because they can't. They are soft. They can't take it."

"Look back over the records and you'll find that all the great pitchers of baseball—Cy Young, Mordecai Brown, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, to name a few—were men who had to work hard all their lives."

Toney retired in 1927 after 16 years in the National league.

CALIENTE 'CAP ANNEXED BY SEABISCUIT

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico. (P)—Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, 1937 turf champion, was en route to the racing wars at Bay Meadows, San Mateo, today after winning the $12,500 added Agua Caliente handicap over a mile and a furlong yesterday.

Seabiscuit won by two lengths, Grayjack was second and Little Myth third. Seabiscuit, pre-race favorite, only paid its backers $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20. He went the distance in 1:50.2.

More than 20,000 persons witnessed the race.

He was trailed three lengths by Sweepshot. Advocate was third. Ligaroti ran the mile in 1:40. He paid his backers $17.80, $7.60 and $4.

Here And There in Spring Camps

TAMPA, Fla.—Wes Ferrell and Zeke Bonura of the Washington Senators are taking Manager Harris' mind off the Senators' defeats. Ferrell hurled five brilliant innings yesterday and Bonura is clotting the ball far enough to insure plenty of homers in the Senators' home park.

AVON PARK, Fla.—Eric McNair, Boston Red Sox second-sacker who ended his holdout recently, said today he is "in great shape and ready to go." Bobby Doerr has been playing second for the Sox, but although his fielding has been flashy, he has not been hitting.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Richard Merriwell Erickson, rookie hurler of the Boston Bees, may be a real "Dick Merriwell" this season. Erickson has shown excellent control thus far and that's what his Manager Casey Stengel grinning.

HOUSTON, Texas.—Manager Gabby Street can't figure out this

Max West to Land Bees' Infield Job

BRADENTON. (P)—Max West's good showing in a tryout may earn the Boston Bees' rookie the first base job. Elbie Fletcher, slated to play there this season, has not hit well and has a lame back. Gil English will start the season at third, Manager Casey Stengel indicated. At present English is out with an injured ankle.

Tennis Star Says Marriage Displayed No Ingratitude

BEVERLY HILLS. (P)—In a honeymoon cottage unfolded today the love story of a young American tennis ace and a bride 20 years his senior.

The youth was Frankie Parker, born Franciszek A. Pajowski, one-time Milwaukee ball boy and at 22 the nation's No. 4 tennis player. The woman was Audrey Browne Beasley Parker, mother of two children, whom Parker married three days after she divorced Mercer Beasley, his tennis coach and benefactor.

J.C. TRACKMEN THREATEN FIVE MARKS

Erwin Youel May Set Vault Record

Under fire of stiff competition for the first time this season when Chaffey ripped their sails, 67-64, Friday, four Santa Ana Junior college trackmen turned in marks which may eclipse or tie five records on the Don books.

Seven meets—three Eastern conference dual affairs and two conference meets and two relays—remain on the Dons' cinder schedule. San Bernardino invades Santa Ana Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, followed by Fullerton and Riverside. The all-Eastern and all-Southern California conference meets, and the Compton and Fresno relays conclude the season.

Bill Huntalas, Southern California prep champion from Ocean-side, may turn the trick in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Although off his high school peak of 9.8 and 22 secs. in the two sashes, Huntalas, by equalling these marks, may tie Maurice (Red) Guyer's "century" record and wipe off Guyer's "furlong" time of 22.1 secs.

Frank Boyd's 440-yard record of 51.8 secs., established in 1935, will be Walt Opp's objective. He turned in a 53-flat quarter-mile on Chaffey's muddy track last week. Erwin Youel soared 11 feet 10 inches in the pole vault, which gave notice that the 12.7 standard set by James Noy in 1936 may fall by the boards before the season closes.

Capt. Blas Mercurio set his own standard of 6 feet 17 inches last year, and judging from his 6-foot effort last week, he may top it by several inches.

SNEAD, REVOLTA LEADING GOLF

GREENSBORO, N. C. (P)—With Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Johnny Revolta of Evansville, Ill., three strokes in the lead at the half way mark, the $5000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament shifted today from the Starmount to the Valley Brook course for the 36-hole final.

Three years ago—St. Louis Cardinals sold Pat Malone, veteran pitcher, to Yankees.

Bruin Master Minds Map Grid Plans

William H. (Bill) Spaulding, who will retire as head football coach at U. C. L. A. at the end of the 1938 season, and his new line coach, Ray Richards, former Nebraska star, look over the prospects at a spring practice session in Westwood.

ELEVATE BAER CUNNINGHAM TO 2ND SPOT IN BOXING

WASHINGTON. (P)—The National Boxing association, in its quarterly ratings, elevated Max Baer today to second place among the challengers to heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

Baer—who recently won a decision from Tommy Farr—was not among the first 10 fighters last quarter.

Max Schmeling again was ranked next to Louis, Tony Galento continued in third place and Farr was rated fourth.

Young Corbett III was rated next to Champion Freddie Steele in the middleweight division, and Fred Apostoli, one notch below.

Former Featherweight Champion Petey Sarron—now battling as a lightweight—was dropped from the featherweight ratings.

Fayetteville Star Released by Landis Joins Giants' Camp

BATON ROUGE, La. (P)—One of the players affected by Judge Landis' recent ruling on some of the St. Louis Cardinals' minor league clubs is at the New York Giants' camp. He is Paul Fugit, a first baseman, who hit .374 for Fayetteville in the Arkansas-Missouri league last year. He probably will be signed to a Giant contract and farmed out.

Three years ago—St. Louis Cardinals sold Pat Malone, veteran pitcher, to Yankees.

CUNNINGHAM MAY RACE WOODERSEN

NEW YORK. (P)—The often discussed "dream" of a mile race between Sydney Woodersen of England and Glenn Cunningham may become a reality this June at Princeton's fifth annual invitational track meet.

Woodersen and five other top notch European athletes have been invited for the races on June 18. Asa Bushnell, director of the meet, yesterday announced only the names of the six foreigners invited, but it is known that he is aiming at a meeting between America's 4:04.4 miler and Great Britain's 4:06.4 speedster.

Woodersen never has competed in this country. His acceptance of the invitation hinges on the date of his civil service examinations in June. If the dates do not conflict, he probably will be on hand.

LUKE APPLING BREAKS LEG

HOLLYWOOD. (P)—The Chicago White Sox, minus Shortstop Luke Appling, who broke his leg Sunday, met Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league today, with Bill Dietrich, Jess Dobner and George Glick getting mount duty.

Today a year ago—Bob Feller fanned six Giants in three innings of exhibition game. Grey County won Louisiana derby.

ROSS BRIGADE OUTCLASSES CORONADO

Needs Only 14 Pts. After 17 1/2-3 1/2 Win

By PAUL WRIGHT
Fourteen points away from the Group One championship, Santa Ana Country club's crack golfers today settled down to serious swinging for their final match with Rancho Santa Fe over the Newport boulevard course next Sunday afternoon.

Flashing a brilliance equalled only by their smashing 17-4 comeback win over San Diego two Sundays ago, Dr. Garland C. Ross' 14-man divot-digging brigade came to life on the back nine to blast Coronado's league-leaders, 17 1/2-3 1/2, here yesterday.

This came in spite of a 26-hole handicap inflicted upon the Santa Ana athletes! And despite the overwhelming defeat, Coronado retained first place with 66 1/2 points, after completing its schedule. Santa Ana, with one more match, must score 13 1/2 points against Rancho Santa Fe to tie—and 14 to win—here Sunday.

Rancho Santa Fe and San Diego definitely are out of the titular picture.

Shooting 75's, Jack Robertson and Dick Ewert turned in a best-ball of 69 to lead both teams for Santa Ana. San Diego's Yates had a 75 for a best-ball of 71.

An enthusiastic gallery witnessed the matches.

Jack Robertson and Dick Ewert (SA), 3; Yates and R. Pickford (C), 0.

Eddie Holmes, Jr., and A. W. Robinson (SA), 1; Henning and Iohorek (C), 2.

H. S. Wright and Fay Hochstrasser (SA), 3; Jones and Fellows (C), 0.

Homer Robinson and L. W. Bemis (SA), 2 1/2; Carson and Latham (C), 1/2.

F. E. Farnsworth and L. D. Corfing (SA), 2; Lando and Carlin (C), 1.

Gen. Manker and J. K. McDonald (SA), 3; Warf and Anderson (C), 0.

E. H. Guthrie and George Baker (SA), 3; Masek and Wallace (C), 0.

Score—Santa Ana, 17 1/2; Coronado, 3 1/2. Farnsworth and Bemis, 72-4-68, and Holmes and A. W. Robinson, 72-4-68, tied in Saturday's medal play.

Gutteridge-Vance 100-Yard Dash Goal of Players

HAINES CITY, Fla. (P)—The New York Yankees are trying to get the St. Louis Cardinals to let Don Gutteridge run 100 yards against Joe Vance. The champions are sure Pitcher Vance can take Gutteridge, widely publicized as a speed boy, and they are willing to bet on him. Frankie Frisch is timid about letting Don run and risk straining himself. Or maybe he thinks Vance can run faster.

YOUR OIL FREE

IF YOU'RE OUT OF OIL, YOU'RE OUT OF LUCK.
Burned out bearings cost money. So get in on this proposition made by us Shell dealers who display the "Free Oil Check" sign:

Drive up to the gas pumps at any one of our stations. If we don't check your oil without being told, we'll bring your oil level up to the full mark free.

We'll do this with the oil made especially for today's stop-and-go driving—GOLDEN SHELL OIL.

Stop and go calls for a certain kind of oil. Here's why: You average 10 cold starts a day. If your oil is slow-flowing, one start can cause as much wear as 50 miles of steady running.

Golden Shell changes this. It's fast-flowing. The second you start, it coats each engine part with a tough oil film that doesn't break down...even at steady high speeds.

COME IN TODAY. Remember, if we forget to check your oil before we finish serving you, we'll bring your oil up to the "full" mark free.

REFERENDUM MOVE AGAINST TIDELAND OIL BILL THREATENED

I Just Found OutAbout
Ideal
'Day
Nursery'By
MILLARD
BROWNE

Brunch, lunch and afternoon "tea," plus a whole day of supervisor play—and all for 25 cents. Economically, it's probably unsound. But from 15 to 25 Santa Ana youngsters are getting just that treatment, all because some local Ebells clubwomen started a "day nursery" more than a decade ago.

Taxed to the nursery by their working mothers, the young ones begin arriving at 6:30 a. m., leave at 5:30 p. m. when Mama's day's work is done. Ranging from two to five years of age, the kiddies come back day after day, get to be practically brothers and sisters. Some of the older ones have been steady day-time boarders nearly three years.

The nursery was established mostly as an aid to widowed or divorced mothers who had to support their own children, and the age limits were set because nursery attendants aren't equipped to care for cradle infants, while those over five can enroll in kindergarten. The 25-cent fee is nominal, doesn't begin to pay for even the food.

The day's routine: orange juice (all you can drink) at 10 a. m., hot lunch at noon, nap from then 'til 3 p. m. when milk is served. Remainder of the time is spent in a big backyard equipped with swings, slides and sandpile when it's sunny, at indoor games during the rain.

The day nursery itself (located at 610 Garfield street) is just a big home, but everything in it is in miniature, resembles a doll house. The dinner table, which can seat 25, is less than two feet high, for example, and cots, chairs, even plumbing fixtures are built in about the same proportion.

Each enrollee has his own bed, pajamas and towel, knows where to go to find the right one. The towels, hanging in a row in the bathroom, are identified by a picture of a dog, cat or something else, since the children are too young to read their names.

High spot of the day is lunchtime, which becomes something of a ritual. Two of the youngsters are chosen as waiters (it's the very, very good ones, rather than the naughty ones, who get to serve) each day, and the children always say Grace, have memorized a brief prayer for the occasion.

A constant marvel to the attendants (Mrs. D. Haas and Mrs. Gladys Lindsay) is the way the tots eat. Mothers occasionally apologize for their offspring's lack of appetite when they're first "enrolled" at the nursery, usually find them gobbling everything in sight within a week or so. Explanation for the phenomenon: food somehow tastes better when such a big group eats at once. Average

3-DAY EXHIBIT
BY STUDENTS OF ARCHITECTURE

The University of Southern California College of Architecture will present a three-day public exhibition of its year's accomplishments at the Ebells clubhouse on May 5, 6 and 7. The display will open with a dinner in the evening of May 5 at which Mayor Fred C. Rowland and other townspeople will be among those attending.

Of special interest to business men, and others interested in city planning, will be the showing of models, drawings and specifications for modernizing several blocks of buildings in the heart of Santa Ana's trading area. The junior class of the college has been working for several months on this project.

A prominent speaker, possibly a city planner, will be a featured guest at the dinner, according to Stan Butler, general chairman of the field trip.

Each year the college stages a field journey for its pupils, aimed at bringing its students into close contact with the general public. The architecture school is arranging the affair in Santa Ana this year to tie in with the modernization plans the junior classmen have been engaged in here this semester.

Robert McClain, president of the College of Architecture student body, is helping Butler with arrangements. Alpha Rho Chi, college fraternity, is assisting the school in sponsoring the event. Professor C. M. Baldwin will be among the university officials here during the affair.

boarder gains more than a pound a week for the first few months.

Only rule prodding the youngsters to eat what's served: if they don't eat the main course they don't get dessert.

Though proud of their kiddies' behavior, the two matrons concede life among 15 rollicking boys and girls is no cinch. Their apron strings are constantly being tugged by a weeping young one who fell down or who was "picked on" by the others.

All toys are furnished by the Ebells club, and the attendants discourage mothers who would have their babies bring their own, or grounds it might cause jealousy. Everyone at the nursery is on an equal basis, and pampered kids as well as bullies soon learn to fit into the picture.

The children are never whipped, but the nursery uses other disciplinary measures: sitting indoors in a chair for mild naughtiness, going to bed for more serious cases. Threat of a half-hour bed sentence keeps the youngsters pretty well in line.

Holidays like Valentine's day and St. Patrick's birthday are big events at the nursery, invariably mean ice cream and cake supplied by one of the Ebells members. There's also a party whenever an enrollee has a birthday.

Most stringent requirement for admission is that a youngster bring a doctor's report on a throat culture test as a precaution against diphtheria. Other admission rules occasionally are stretched depending on circumstances.

Former Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria might have escaped from Vienna, but he refused to leave when Germans held his 11-year-old son, Kurt, Jr., above, as a pledge of his father's "discretion." Consequently the former Chancellor was placed under heavy guard in Belvedere Palace.

FISHING

A fishing trip.
On the ocean, so blue.
Is something, I claim,
Which is good for you.

It's not so hot if you
Are out on a float.
But a very good bet,
On a live-bait-boat.

A chance on the barge,
May be all right.
If you are prepared
To stay all night.

Let your line go out
Through the tip on your rod,
Go down to the bottom,
And catch tom-cod.

You can have some fun,
And make folks look.
If you are lucky enough,
A halibut to hook.
A yellow-tail is Often sought, yet this is
One which is seldom caught.

But if you want to really
Have some fun,
Take a live-bait-boat
And make the Island-run.

Here's always a chance
As you cast o'er the rail
To hook that famous yellow-tail.

When ever you get one
Of these on your hip,
You'll then be paid,
For your fishing-trip.

There's just one thing,
Which I always hate,
That's to get on a boat,
That don't rotate.

This fishing game is hard to play.
You do not catch them every day.

But if you keep on going,
And just sit tight;
Some of these days
You'll strike it right.

—Billie Smith.

AUTOISTS! READ
THIS APPEAL BY
TRAFFIC VICTIMBy RUTH SAWYER
(Reprinted from Atlantic Monthly)

I am writing on the back of old hospital charts, I found this stub of a pencil in my handbag. By propping myself on an elbow I can feel the pencil's way across the paper in this scant light.

If they knew, the doctors and nurses would not let me write—they would take away these poor tools. But I cover them up when the night nurse comes in and feign drowsiness. This writing tonight is all that stands between me and sanity.

Across the narrow stretch of room, in his cot, lies my John Paul, whimpering. For twenty days he has been whimpering. At rare intervals the whimperings become words; they break through his stupor, like embedded needles working their way to the surface. "Mummy, I want to get up. Please, Mummy!"

NEVER GET UP AGAIN

John Paul is 4. He will never get up again—that is, never as a whole, free, exultant little boy. He will never throw back the covers of his cot, shoot across his room and ours, and drop like a plummet, stomach down, on our bed, shouting, "Here I come—Daddy and Mum—Daddy and Mum!" It's time to get up, up, up! Nor will he take the stairs, down, at a gallop, chanting, "I'll set the table. Knives and forks, napkins and spoon, porridge and prunes," and burst into ecstatic laughter because he has found words with singing stabs of agony in them; but I have never written them before. We think of terrible things always happening to that mythical "other person," somebody who bears no relationship to us—no close relationship. Well, I am that "other person."

PLASTER CAST

Sometimes John Paul plucks at his chest with his uninjured hand and says: "Take it off, please, Mummy. It's so heavy." He is in a plaster cast from his throat to his thighs; there are casts on his legs and one arm. There is a metal contrivance around his neck to support his head; it is set into the cast on his body. He looks like a tiny bird trussed up with a steel wire. "Take wings from a bird, and all power to fly—would he still be a bird? I say, No! As I say that all childhood has ended for John Paul at four years of age. The attributes of childhood are freedom, unlimited faith, joy unrestrained; take these away and what is left?"

I look at the years that stretch ahead of us and wonder. For the present John Paul will do his living on a wheeled stretcher—that much the doctors know. After that a wheel chair, perhaps; at best a brace and crutches.

THIS MUCH I KNOW

This Much I Know—John Paul Can Never Drive a Car at Fifty Miles an Hour around a Corner and, By So Doing, Cage Another's Spirit in a Helpless Body.

Is there no executive or power to speak for these fifty thousand crippled each year by someone's negligence? Is there no way of arousing the conscience of the drivers of this nation? For centuries men have written that we have war because at heart men like to fight.

The nurse has been in again. I must stop. But if there be those who read of my John Paul, pray God they may think on and for other childhood—the whole, the able, and free; and may they be stirred beyond peace of mind or rest of body.

Hiram Johnson, who has ably represented his state in the upper house of congress for many years is shown above in a pensive mood. Senator Johnson, a progressive Republican, rolled up his sleeves in Franklin D. Roosevelt's first campaign for the presidency and went to bat for him in a big way. Senator Johnson has been credited with the downfall of the now Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes when he ran against Wilson for president "way back when." Hughes on a visit to California neglected to pay Hiram a visit and—he was noted out by Wilson. Johnson is considered one of the most astute politicians in the senate.

Sleep Late, Take
Naps, Advice to All
From Psychologist

CHICAGO, (AP) — That adage about the benefits of turning in early and rising early is better rhyme than reason, says Dr. Joseph Jastrow, psychologist.

"There is absolutely no virtue in early rising," Dr. Jastrow writes in "Hygiene," published by the American Medical association. "What you need and crave is enough sleep to start the day right. If you don't get refreshing sleep—which millions do not—no night is long enough for recovery. The best you can do is to get all the sleep you can in the morning, for you are then in the most relaxed condition for sleeping—and to make it up during the day by as many naps as you can."

HERE IS A HANDFUL OF ACES
TO TAKE ALL MAKE-UP TRICKSBy BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

When your husband gets out his flashiest tie, take that for a cue to try a new make-up trick. Here's a handful of suggestions. Some may be too flashy, but they'll give you something to think about. The new five-suit bridge deck inspires our first make-up stunt. It's done this way: Trace silhouettes of the five symbols on transparent mending tape or gummed cloth and cut them out in duplicate, a set for each hand. Paste a symbol in the center of each nail as a mask, then brush on your polish. It doesn't matter how the polish lies on the patch because, before the polish is too dry you take a pin and lift each patch off.

That will leave the design in natural color. If you're ambitious, you can fill it in with white wax. Warning: Though it's inspired by bridge, you'd better not use this motif when you're playing the game.

Here are some other manicure stunts:

Paint the tips of your nails to match the gown you're wearing, but just the tips. Leave the rest of the nails colorless.

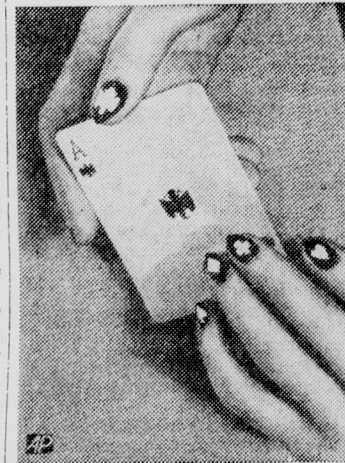

Pile your nails to a point. Then indent the polish a little at the base of the moon—and your nails will appear heart-shaped.

There are all sorts of ensemble tricks, too, involving make-up. A striking daytime ensemble includes a very plain black dress set off by silver nail polish (down to the very tips) and heavy silver bracelet and necklace.

An unusual evening ensemble involves putting gold flecks in your hair, using gold nail polish, gold eye mascara and one or two pieces of gold jewelry.

Alfred Lunt, incidentally, wore silver eyeshadow over his eyebrows when he appeared in the role of Jupiter in "Amphitryon '38." Richard Whorf, as Mercury in the same play, wore gold eyebrows.

by pasting sequins at the corners of his eyes near the nose. He achieved the effect of flashing jewels when he stepped into the spotlight.

One of the latest stunts is to match the ornaments on charm bracelets with beauty spots. At a party given for Gertrude Lawrence by Conde Nast recently two actresses wore charm bracelets whose half-moons and stars were repeated in black beauty spots near the right eye.

3 'OUTS' GIVEN
VOTERS IF STEP
TO ALTER TAKENAuthority Differs on Special Session Action

Success of a threatened referendum movement against the oil bill passed at the special session of the legislature would put up to the voters of the state in November choice between three measures controlling development of fields in the state.

There is some division of authority as to whether the act passed at the special session would supersede the O'Donnell bill with respect to Huntington Beach and elsewhere. Opponents of the general leasing bill pointed out in debate that whether it does or doesn't supersede the Olson act, it would, unless held up at referendum, by the governing law at Huntington Beach, and in the state as a whole, between the time it takes effect 90 days hence, until the people have by the vote approved (if they do) the Olson measure.

Two acts of the legislature of 1937, the Olson and O'Donnell measures, already have been forced to a referendum by the filing of petitions. Both of these are limited in application of the Huntington Beach area. The general oil and minerals leasing act which emerged from the special session applies to all of the state's lands.

DIFFERENCES

The differences between the Olson and the O'Donnell bill are not so great as between either of them and the bill recently enacted. The Olson bill provides a minimum royalty of 30 per cent to the state from production of wells in excess of 200 barrels a day for 30 consecutive days. The general measure, called the Robertson bill, leaves the state's share of the proceeds to the discretion of the state lands commission.

The Olson bill provides that if satisfactory bids are not received from private operators for leases, the state may do its own drilling by contract or day labor. Robertson's measure does not permit direct production by the state.

The director of finance would administer the Olson act whereas under the Robertson bill a state lands commission would administer it. This commission would consist of the state controller, lieutenant governor and director of finance.

OLSON'S MEASURE

Olson's measure authorizes tidal-land drilling from piers, groins and islands. The other does not contemplate beach drilling but provides for slant drilling from the uplands or drilling from filled tidelands only.

Proceeds from the former, after deduction of costs and distribution, would go wholly to the general fund.

One Act Play Is Prelude To Party

Achieving the hospitable charm of a private party, the annual benefit bridge sponsored Saturday afternoon by the Orange county branch of the American Association of University Women was a distinct success in every way. Attendance was splendid without crowding the spacious Peacock room of the Ebell clubhouse, and as guests entered they were greeted by Miss Mabel Whiting, president of the organization, Miss Anna Trythall, general chairman of the party, and other members of the executive board.

Mrs. Hiram M. Currey also occupied a prominent position, for hers was the duty of checking table reservations. Guests were seated at tables prettily spread with pastel-tinted cloths, each centered with a dainty potted primula, which later turned out to be the table prize.

Great sheaves of colorful mustard-blossoms decorated the stage and sidelines of the room, and the whole effect was distinctly of springtime. After the dainty dessert which repeated the flower motif, had been enjoyed, an unusually enjoyable feature was presented, a one-act play given through the courtesy of the Community Players.

Entitled "Three No Trump" and written by Mrs. Frank Was of Santa Ana, the drama turned out to be a satiric comedy that delighted its audience. Cleverly interpreting the roles were Gertrude Horn, Helen Wieseman, Betty Jo Willis, and Robert Horn, all experienced and competent players. Impromptu and charming were the presentations of Mrs. Was and of Gladys Simpson Shafer, talented director of the group.

After an hour of bridge the party was called to a halt, with each table receiving one high score prize, and with ten lucky prizes being awarded. These turned out to be beautiful little hand-fashioned pewter plates and one lovely complete of similar metal, made by Mrs. Wendell Finley.

Winners were Mrs. Harry Evan Owings, Mrs. Edward Redford, Mrs. Harold Dale, Mrs. E. E. Knappe, Mrs. Charles Budd, Mrs. Joseph Haynes, Mrs. A. N. Zeman, Mrs. Charles McDaniel, Mrs. James Merigold, Mrs. Chester Page, and Miss Lula Minter.

Refreshments were in charge of Miss Ruth Rowland, and serving was directed by Miss Genevieve Hamilton, assisted by the Las Meninas girls of Santa Ana Junior college. The pretty little tallies were made by Louise Wilson of the junior college, and scorecards were secured by Miss Dorothy Decker from the Lantieri Oil company.

Mrs. Richard Robbins supervised the ticket sale, Miss Lillian Dickson was responsible for the lovely decorations, Mrs. Ray Adkinson arranged the tables, Miss Mary Beasley set the tables, Mrs. Fanny Bragg arranged for playing covers, and Mrs. Marjorie Dudley supervised the day's entertainment.

All proceeds from the delightful affair went to the group's annual contribution to the student loan fund of the junior college here.

Book Review of the Week

By MOLLY HARVEY

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of weekly book reviews of current publications which will appear each Monday in The Journal.

"Japan Defies the World" by James A. B. Scherer

Three weeks ago, "Japan Defies the World" promised to be a widely read book, but since Hitler's coup has placed European affairs in the center of the stage the oriental struggle has withdrawn to the wings. However, these new secondary characters will soon emerge again, and Mr. Scherer's praiseworthy presentation of the case against Japan will receive the notice due it. For 46 years the author has been in close contact with Japan, part of that time as teacher in a boys' school, and has watched many of his former pupils rise to official position, and at the same time noted with sorrow Japan's return to the Fascism which ruled it centuries before Mussolini invented the word.

Known in Japan as camp government, with a supreme military dictator called the Shogun, Fascism ruled for 550 years until it was overthrown in a civil war which in 1868 restored the Emperor to nominal power. But gradually the Japanese people have been betrayed, says Mr. Scherer, betrayed by a small group of militarists greedy for power, and by the four families who dominate the country economically and are greedy for more wealth. Among the citizens is a deep undercurrent of opposition to Fascism, expressed at the polls in April of 1937 when an overwhelming vote turned down the program to seize China, and in the abortive revolt in February the year before when 1400 soldiers took up arms against the private army run by the ambitious generals and big business. However, Japan's constitution permits the military to be a law unto themselves at time of emergency, and as it is a simple measure to declare such emergencies the Fascists have been able to manipulate all opposition to their own advantage.

According to Mr. Scherer, Japan today has a concealed dictator, General Minami, nominally governor-general of Korea, who shuns publicity, and governs by long-distance telephone. All ordinances which he wishes passed are sent to the emperor for the application of the privy seal, and are accepted without question by the over-awed populace in whom emperor worship has been deeply instilled for purposes of statecraft.

In readable manner, Mr. Scherer traces the development of the present day militarists, discussing the social, economic, and political conditions which have had most direct bearing on the contemporary situation. He quotes a vast number of authors, and for the benefit of his readers has sorted out the most pertinent material. But gradually the Japanese people have been betrayed, says Mr. Scherer, betrayed by a small group of militarists greedy for power, and by the four families who dominate the country economically and are greedy for more wealth. Among the citizens is a deep undercurrent of opposition to Fascism, expressed at the polls in April of 1937 when an overwhelming vote turned down the program to seize China, and in the abortive revolt in February the year before when 1400 soldiers took up arms against the private army run by the ambitious generals and big business. However, Japan's constitution permits the military to be a law unto themselves at time of emergency, and as it is a simple measure to declare such emergencies the Fascists have been able to manipulate all opposition to their own advantage.

According to Mr. Scherer, Japan today has a concealed dictator, General Minami, nominally governor-general of Korea, who shuns publicity, and governs by long-distance telephone. All ordinances which he wishes passed are sent to the emperor for the application of the privy seal, and are accepted without question by the over-awed populace in whom emperor worship has been deeply instilled for purposes of statecraft.

Cleora Fine Is Mission Bride

Lovely old San Juan Capistrano mission was the scene of the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Cleora Fine, native daughter and member of an old Southern California family, and Jack Hotchkiss of Palm Springs. Guests assembled at the mission at 4 o'clock to witness the ceremony at the church and floral decorations of white calla lilies and California poppies with lovely tall lighted tapers near the altar.

The bride wore a desert sand wool suit trimmed in red fox with green accessories and a corsage of yellow tulle. The groom wore a tuxedo with a red bow tie. The ceremony was performed by Father Hutchinson of the Mission.

The young couple, following a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, will make their home at 100 N. Kanmore street, Los Angeles. The bride is employed at the Credit Loan company in Los Angeles and Mr. Hotchkiss, who is the son of Mr. Olive G. Hotchkiss of Long Beach, is employed in the desert resort at the Dill Lumber company.

Guests at the wedding stayed for the reception held at La Casa Adobe cafe, an old Spanish landmark in Capistrano, where the wedding table was beautifully set with a white madeira cloth, bowls of sweet peas and tall white tapers, with a three tiered wedding cake as centerpiece, which the bride cut. Mrs. Hotchkiss, the groom's mother, and Mrs. Walter Templeton, formerly Grace Anderson, who is a chum of the bride, poured, assisting the bride's sister, Mrs. Lufberry, and her two cousins, Mrs. Gene Hild and Miss Margaret E. Young, who served.

Alphonse Fages sang the selections, "Because" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," accompanied at the piano by Miss Carmelita Verdugo. The reception room was lovely with bouquets of spring flowers. Guests stayed the wedding book sent by Mr. and Mrs. John Ruiz, and following the reception the bride and groom were speeded on their way with a shower of rice, old shoes and tin cans.

Relatives from various cities in the Southwest were present for the pretty ceremony in the picturesque atmosphere of the mission took pictures of the bridal party in the mission patio with the graceful old arches as a background while birds pecked at the garden in the foreground.

Mary Stoddard Mother of Five Should Be Too Tired to Goad About at Night, No?

Today one of my "reader families" chides me on a letter written by the husband of a family of five youngsters, whose wife enjoys night life without him, as he prefers to stay at home and visit with his children. Dear Miss Stoddard: We read "A Husband's Letter" with a laugh as any mother of five babies, with no help, which he states, would not likely have any pep left for night parties of any kind. Are you sure, Mary, you printed the right letter, or didn't you read it before printing. We think you let yourself slip on this one, as any one of common sense would know that that letter is a fake.

THE EASTER PARADE

Easter is late this year. So whether we dare hope for it or not these rainy days of March, it will surely happen. Easter morning shall be sunny and warm. And like other fiesta days, whose traditions run through the years, that feeling of "something special" fills the air, and it becomes tremendous adventure and fun to dress up in one's Sunday best, and to go out and just mingle with all the world. Everywhere that morning new bonnets (actually too, this spring) and smart costumes will saunter along the streets toward church. Churches themselves will have hundreds standing about talking before their wide-open doors. And those who have made no preparations will feel just a little out of it. For there is fun in the Easter Parade.

The fashion sights will be exciting this year. I can now promise more color than we have seen in years. But aside from that, women will look different this year. And that will be because they will be very feminine—with flowers and veils on their hats—dainty, colored sandals often on their feet—filly collars or blouse fronts with their suits—jewelry—rustling petticoats, and the whole gamut of subtle foibles which have always belonged to coquetry. It is the fresh new theme for fashionableness this spring.

Costumes themselves will vary tremendously—since fashion allows women so many and such varied choices this season. There will be capes—and boleros—but also tailored suits—and also more casual suits in delicately colored soft wools. There will be coats too—sometimes loose and long and sometimes fitted and even dilly dilly. There will be very smart fingerdotes and costume ensembles of wrap with its own dress. All these, and even more, are "in the air" for this Easter.

But whatever women choose, it will be the inimitable details—and little touches which will make their final smartness! These will be the dashing hats which perch on the head like a Gibson Girl sailor—or tied under the chin with a gaucho strap—real bonnets bedecked with flowers—silly little panaches with flowers which look like picturesque great-brimmed hats with soft flowers and romantic trimmings held little "bowls" or upturned gaucho brims!

If women are dressed as Fashion really wants them to dress—then husbands will be thinking that their wife is looking pretty again this spring—more like she looked long ago when he married her. And children will murmur with pride "Mommy I love your new dress!" And friends will take a second and a third look at each other. For smart women shall not lose a trick to make themselves as possible and interesting as possible. This comes first once more—instead of that harsh abstraction "smartness" which has ruled for so long. To be individually charming now is chic.

PETERSONS ARE HOSTS TO DINNER CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterson opened their pretty home on Grand avenue to their club Saturday night, employing a Chinese motif in decorations.

A big brass bowl filled with delphinium and yellow Iceland poppies, mingled with the mixed blue and yellow of birds of paradise, was flanked by orange tapers and Chinese figurines, and a typical oriental menu was served.

Club members present were Mr. and Mrs. Hockaday, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harwood, and Judge and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Blancher who appointed a nominating committee to choose new officers for the coming year. They are Mrs. John Harrison, George Jenkins and Sudie May Joiner. Funds were voted from the class treasury to buy material with which clothes will be made for babies and small children in the Atwood and Placencia district who are numbered among flood sufferers.

Mrs. Leola Dietrich volunteered to call her sewing club together to make blankets and comforts for flood sufferers. The afternoon was spent sewing and visiting. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, 614 East Third street on April 25.

Class members present at yesterday's luncheon were the Mesdames Edna Machander, Leola Dietrich, W. MacMurphy, Welpa F. Davey, O. S. Catland, J. J. Harrison, N. F. ## Elsie Siemsen Feted At Shower

Miss Elsie Siemsen, who is to be an Easter bride, was suitably honored at a lovely shower given Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John McCoy, 1207 Louise street with the Misses Patsy and Blanche Oliphant as co-hostesses. Miss Siemsen was presented with a lovely corsage of white gardenia and fern which filled in beautifully with her pale blue wool dress with pink tulle sash.

Bride was played during the afternoon with Kay Vaughn winning prize for high score, and the honored guest of the afternoon winning second prize. A dessert course followed bridge, with the tables attractively spread in white linens and decorated with gleaming silver and crystal glasses with small glass baskets of pink sweet peas as a centerpiece.

When Miss Siemsen had thoroughly hunted through the house and found a number of intriguing packages hidden here and there, the guests followed her to the living room table where she opened them to find matching pieces for the white pottery set she is completing for her "best service."

Two other brides-to-be, Rowena Newcom, who is to be wedded April 9, and Margaret Krause, whose wedding is to be held "trough around Easter," but she won't tell exactly, were present to add to the festivity of the afternoon. Houses, furnishings and domestic affairs came in for their part of the afternoon's conversation which was enlivened by the presence of young Harrison Jackson, Jr., son of the former Ruth DuBois of this city, who is just rounding up the eighteenth months corner.

Present to enjoy the afternoon in Blanche McCoy's charming new "mansion" were Marie Smith, Virginia Fritcher, Kay Vaughn, Rowena Newcom, Rachel Jones, Ruth Wagner, Ruth DuBois Jackson of Inglewood, Alberta Egan Brown of Highland Park, Dorothy Shaffert of Orange, Margaret Krause, Juanita Fowler Dunn, Mrs. Robert Goetz of Garden Grove, Edith Cordvale, and Mrs. William Winter of Fullerton.

Original 'Sing
Band' Featured

By TOM E. DANSON

Leon Rene's original "Sing Band," composed of a group of young men who imitate the various musical instruments of the orchestra solely with their voice and throat, will be featured on a special program originating at the Don Lee Los Angeles studios and heard on KVOE tonight at 8:45.

Practically every instrument of a complete orchestra, including a complete band, guitar and brass instruments, are realistically simulated by this clever group. They were recently featured in Bing Crosby's picture, "Double or Nothing," and with Eddie Cantor in "All Baba Goes to Town," and were the guests of George Jessel in Mutual's "Thirty Minutes in Hollywood" program yesterday.

EDDIE CANTOR STARTS
NEW SERIES

It will now be "I Love to Spend Each Monday With Eddie Cantor," Gertrude Lawrence, the star of Broadway's current hit, "Susan and God," and favorite comedienne of two continents will be Cantor's guest star to add lustre to the opening ceremonies of his new show tonight at 7:30 via KVOE.

In keeping with his plan to debunk the theory that Monday must be called blue, Cantor has invited Benny Goodman and his quartet to help get rid of the blues by swinging them away.

Three personalities new to the Cantor program make their bow as permanent additions to the program with the initial Monday night broadcast.

HISTORICAL THEME
FOR "GRAND HOTEL"

An original play with historical background will be presented on Grand Hotel tonight from 5:30 to 6:00 over the KFI-NBC-Red Network, when "The Queen's Idyll," a dramatization of the tragic love story of Princess Elizabeth (later the Queen of England) and her page Robert, is given with Betty Lou Gerson and James Ameche in the leading roles.

Written by Eleanor Shoemaker, the play deals with Thomas Seymour's efforts to thwart the Princess Elizabeth's marriage to Roberto and to control the throne of England.

The 12th and next-to-the-last in the series of broadcasts being made from KVOE Monday nights at 7 o'clock by the E. P. O. E. conducting their traffic safety campaign, will bring Exalted Ruler Grant Goddicksen of the Orange Elks lodge 1475 to the microphone tonight. Goddicksen will augment the address by Grand Exalted Ruler Charles Spencer Hart.

Reid Kilpatrick announces the floor of the studio used for his "Golf Clinic" will be made safe for duffer tonight. (KEHE, 8:30.) "The safe for duffer" campaign was launched with installation of a rubber floor mat.

Radio brings the 48th anniversary celebration of Washington State college to Pacific Coast air-lines tonight from 8:15 to 8:30 when the College Alumni banquet will be broadcast by KVOE and the Don Lee Network.

Short talks on the occasion will be offered by Dr. A. E. Bryan, President Emeritus, and President E. O. Holland, followed by musical selections by the Washington State college pep band and singing by the varsity quartet and individual students.

"The barefoot boy with cheeks of tan" is not always as physically mentally as he is physically. So says Warden Lewis E. Lawes, who will present the dramatization "Burl" on his program "Behind Prison Bars" tonight from 7:00 to 7:30 over a KECA-NBC-Blue network.

The two popular opera stars, Lawrence Tibbett and Helen Jepson, will be co-starred in "Radio Theater's" production of Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" over the KNX-Columbia network tonight from 6:00 to 7:00. It is believed to be the first time that two famous members of the Metropolitan opera company have appeared together in a radio dramatic production. The presentation also will be unusual in that a specially dramatized version of the operetta is to be used. The production will be in the capable hands of Cecil B. DeMille.

Richard Crooks, tenor soloist of the Voice of Firestone program, will sing Tschakovsky's "None But the Lonely Heart" as a highlight of the Radio City concert to night from 8:30 to 9:00 over the KFI-NBC-Red Network. Crooks also will sing Rinsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India" and from "Sadko," Forsythe's "The Bell Man."

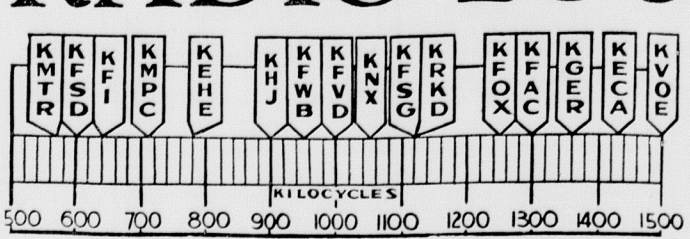

How the "Lone Ranger" solves a bank robbery mystery and changes the course in the life of a desperate old man who turned thief will be the story dramatically re-enacted on the popular adventure series on KVOE and the Don Lee network tonight at 7:30.

Wade "Red" Killefer, manager of the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast baseball league, makes his radio debut tonight at 6:30 as the guest of sports commentator Frank Bull's "Sportsman's" program on KVOE and the Don Lee network.

For its weekly salute to a Pacific Coast city and its Fire Chief, "The Third Alarm" program selects Chief R. E. Halcomb and his hometown of Olympia, Wash., when the weekly program of music and educational drama is heard on KVOE and the Don Lee network tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

Presented in dramatized form, "Third Alarm" will offer a short

THE WRONG MURDERER

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter 33
KENNEDY AGAIN

Terence still had to decide what he was going to do. If, as Lee-Ramsden had told him, there was a warrant out for his arrest, the sooner he obtained a disguise the better. The best place at which to obtain a good disguise would be Clarkford's, the theatrical costumers, in Wardour street.

He decided to get to Clarkford's as soon as possible. The quickest way to get there was by car, and the nearest car was that belonging to the two crooks. He entered it and drove away from the house.

Wardour street was crowded with traffic as possible, and walked along the pavement towards the shop. Just as he was turning into the doorway a hand tapped him on the shoulder and a well-known voice said: "I want a word with you, Mahony. I've been looking for you for some time."

The voice was that of Inspector Kennedy.

Mahony cursed under his breath. "I was told you wanted me," he answered calmly. "But before we go any further, let's have a look at your warrant."

It was his intention, as soon as the inspector put a hand into his pocket, to kick the inspector's feet from under him and make a dash for it. But the inspector did not put his hand into his pocket.

"Warrant?" he echoed in a surprised tone. "Who told you I wanted you, or that I had a warrant?"

He paused.

"Whoever he was, your informant was quite correct. I have got a warrant for your arrest; I've had it in my possession since yesterday. And it will depend on the manner in which you answer one or two questions whether I put it into execution or not."

Now it was Mahony's turn to be surprised. He stared at the inspector, frowning.

"One moment, inspector," he said. "Let's just get things right. Did you leave Mr. Lee-Ramsden's house at about lunch-time this morning with the intention of arresting me?"

The inspector shook his head. "I wasn't at Mr. Lee-Ramsden's house at all this morning," he answered. "Somebody's been pulling your leg. I was there this afternoon, though, inquiring about Miss Fraser. Mr. Lee-Ramsden seemed to have an idea that you were going to try to get out of the country."

"Lee-Ramsden said that," exclaimed Mahony.

With the inspector's words the full realization of Lee-Ramsden's treachery had come to him. It was Lee-Ramsden who had given him away to Lawson; it was Lee-Ramsden and Lawson between them who had sent those two men to lay him out in the house in St. John's Wood. But why?

"What's the excitement about, Miss Fraser?" he demanded. "Why were you inquiring for her?"

"I am inquiring for her because she may be charged with being an accessory to a murder," replied the inspector grimly. "She was in a house in Pennyfields this afternoon where two men were killed. She was seen to enter the house and her car was still outside after the murders were committed. The house is in Royal road and belongs to a man named Bassett."

Mahony was accustomed to receive shocks, but this was about the biggest shock he had received so far that day.

"Miss Fraser—in a house in Pennyfields?" he repeated incredulously. "But what the devil was she doing there?"

"Crossword puzzles, I suppose," replied Kennedy, sarcastically. "Are you trying to pretend that you don't know she was there?"

"I'm not trying to pretend anything. I didn't know she was there. This is the first I've heard of it," answered Mahony truthfully.

The inspector simply did not believe him. Once more he was strongly attempted to arrest Mahony. But that would do no good. Once under arrest he was quite convinced that Mahony would keep his mouth shut and refuse to answer any questions at all.

"So that's your line, is it, Mr. Mahony?" he said. "All right, Mahony, I'll be seeing you again."

He nodded and walked away.

Mahony went to the nearest pub and ordered a stiff drink. He felt he needed it. This new turn in the situation was altogether startling and unexpected.

From the pub he rang up Bassett's number and had a brief conversation with him. The result of that conversation was that he and Bassett met in a bar near Charing Cross, and Bassett told him in detail all the events of the afternoon.

"But don't the police suspect you of being mixed up in all this business this afternoon?" asked Mahony.

"The cops 'ave been suspecting me of things for the last ten years," replied Bassett, grinning. "So long as I don't get any further than suspecting, I ain't worryin'. I told the cops my 'ouse was broken into by persons unknown while I was sittin' in Eli Solomon's back parlor, and I didn't know nothing about it till someone came in and told me there was a shemmozie goin' on in my place, and bodies fallin' out of windows, and all to pay generally. I ain't sayin' they believe me, but I've got witnesses that I was in Solomon's, and they can't do nothin'. The point is, wot's your next move goin' to be?"

"That rather depends on you," he said slowly. "Do you think you could find me half a dozen men, real toughs, who'd be willing to take a chance of a pretty long stretch of imprisonment for fifty pounds apiece? I shall want 'em tonight, at about half past eleven."

"I could find you the men all right," answered Fatty Bassett. "I wonder . . . How long are you going to want these men for, mister?"

"Not more than a couple of hours," answered Mahony.

"Well, see here," said Fatty Bassett, with the air of a man who puts forward a brilliant idea. "The 'Amy Robart' is sailing from the port of London at six in the morning. I know the skipper an' I know the crew; there's a lot of 'em as wouldn't sell 'is soul for fifty quid down, and they're as tough a bunch as I know. Wot about 'aving arf a dozen of 'em, and they does their job, and you gixes 'em their money, and they gets back to the ship in time to sail first thing in the morning?"

"That's a damned fine idea," said Mahony. "About the time the police are beginning to look real earnestly for them they'll be somewhere out in the North Sea. And now there are some other things I want. Listen carefully, Fatty; you've got to get this right. I want a couple of those knock-evening dress—the most presentable two, because I'm going to take them into society. I want a couple of big cars. I want some drink—some good drink; I should think champagne would be about the mark, and I want enough for about fifty people."

"That'll mean about fifteen bottles, if you're goin' to give 'em a good drink each," put in Bassett. "Yes. A Jeroboam holds about the equivalent of six bottles; three Jeroboams would do it. I should think. And I want enough to drop out drops into that drink to put the whole fifty people to sleep for a good couple of hours. One more thing. I want a place where I can hide a prisoner, if necessary. Can you manage all that?"

"I can manage it," answered Mahony. "But wot's the idea? Wot are you goin' to do?"

"With any luck I'm going to stage a hold-up at the Golden Centipede Club that will set London talking for a week, and Lawson swearing for a month," answered Mahony calmly.

After parting from Mahony, Inspector Kennedy returned to Scotland Yard. From there he rang up Elsa Little.

"Terence Mahony is dining with you this evening, I believe, Miss Little," he said. "Are you going on with your original plan of trying to fool him into committing himself?"

"Yes," answered Elsa.

"Right," said the inspector. "I didn't think much of the idea at first, but perhaps it may come in useful. Would you mind if I sent along a couple of men to fix up a

PEN-KNIFE CLOCK MAKER... The mind of a genius was given to Benjamin Banneker, negro son of a freed African slave in Maryland. Expert at mathematical problems and an author in his own right, Banneker aroused the interest of the countryside with his many amazing accomplishments. In 1761 Banneker, using only a pocket knife, whittled from wood the first clock made entirely in America. Only 23 years old, Banneker had never seen anything similar except a sundial and a watch! People came miles to see the wood clock run. So well-built was it that in 20 years constant running it kept accurate time. One of Banneker's neighbors was George Elliott, a wealthy Quaker. The two men became fast friends.

In 1792, aided by James McHenry, a cabinet member under President John Adams, he published his first almanac which was to bring him considerable fame. In acknowledgement of a copy sent him, Thomas Jefferson wrote Banneker: "Nobody wishes more than I do to see such proofs as you exhibit, that nature has given to our black brethren talents equal to the other colors of men."

A Vital American Legion Goal

One of the finest objectives of the American Legion, in addition to its campaign for adequate national defense and its virile support of American ideals, was expressed here last week-end by National Commander Daniel J. Doherty.

That objective is the securing of employment for men who have passed the cruel and unjust 40-year-age deadline that some industries have unwisely and unfairly established.

It is bad enough to have millions of young boys and girls just out of school idle. They are willing and eager to share in the world's work.

But it is trebly bad to force unemployment upon men and women who passed some arbitrary age line like that of 40 years.

The great evil lies in the fact that the older person often is the head of a family with sacred obligations to others dependent upon him, that he generally has more experience and judgment than the younger and consequently is really fitted to render more valuable service to the employer, that he understands the need for successful performance of his duties more thoroughly—and that it is just common decency to give all the breaks possible to those who have contributed most of their lives to the up-building and construction of this civilization.

The average age of Legionnaires, we understand, is 45 years. Thus the average Legionnaire is fully qualified to see and feel the plight which industry's arbitrary rule has placed the older generation.

This country can feel glad that a great and powerful organization like the Legion has turned its energy toward finding a place for the man and woman over 40 in the world's business.

At any rate, Hitler is showing who won in that war treaty of 1918.

Santa Ana Boulevard Bridge

It will cost $5000 to repair the damaged Santa Ana boulevard bridge.

It will cost $85,000 to build a span type structure of the type that would be safe in floods.

This is the answer of city officials to the request of property owners in the danger zone who suffered in the recent Santa Ana river flood.

The city can afford to repair the present trestle, but it hasn't $85,000 to construct a new one that would guarantee the safety of the area when the next flood roars down, officials point out.

Under the circumstances, the only ways that appear to be open to get the money would be through a municipal bond issue or from the state highway department.

Another local bond issue naturally would be hard to carry at a time like this; so the state highway department may be the best bet.

Since Santa Ana boulevard is really a vital portion of Highway 101 on which an enormous amount of interstate and intrastate traffic travels, it seems logical to us that the state should undertake responsibility for construction of a safe type bridge.

Certainly it is as much an obligation of the state as it is of the city to replace the crossing in the safest and best way possible.

Would not it be in line to open negotiations with the state highway department for construction of the Santa Ana boulevard bridge from gasoline tax funds?

Peace news better. Stock market worse. When gamblers don't shuffle the deck, the news does.

Good News for Prosperity

Now and again most of us pause long enough to philosophize a little on the question of what the human race will do for fuel and motive power when it has used up its coal and petroleum. Gloomy prophets sometimes say that time is only a few years off.

But—"Exhaustion of such resources in the United States is conservatively at least 100 years away," says Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, president of the American Chemical society.

And—"Ultimately the farm chemurgic movement will put man on a pay-as-you-go basis in terms of raw materials, instead of having him on his present basis of constantly drawing out of a savings bank of raw materials which nature has accumulated for him through millions of years."

Whether it likes or not, the race is going to have to shift the base of many of its vital operations.

It is satisfying to be assured by one who should know that our children's children's children won't have to revert to fires of bark and leaves for warmth, nor to oxen to get them from place to place.

Meanwhile, uneasy lies the head that wears the crown of Italy.

An Added Adage

A chiropodist, addressing his brethren at a Chicago meeting, declares that the tango, big apple and other strenuous modern dances are driving modern misses to the chiropodists in ever-increasing numbers.

High heels and the pounding rhythms put tootsies and toes out of adjustment, says he, and advises big apple addicts of the so-called gentler sex to wear walking shoes or go barefoot when indulging in big appling.

A big apple a day doesn't keep the chiropodist away.

Labor
On Pacific
Coast

By
Westbrook
Pegler

SAN FRANCISCO.—It will come under the heading of new business to consider labor organization as a manifestation of the Fascist spirit, for the alarmist accusation commonly points the finger in the opposite direction. But under Fascism the unions are supposed to be paramilitary organizations with a mission to repel the revolutionary left by co-operating with business under the discipline of the state and we are beginning to find right-wing labor bosses here who have mixed purposes.

Mr. Dave Beck, the head man of the Teamsters union on the Pacific coast, is a unionizer of the patriotic type. He had two years of high school, went to the war as an aviation mechanic, and is proud to have held exalted offices in the Elks. He hates and baits communists with Rotarian fervor, and proclaims his purpose to co-operate with business so that capital may make a dollar, too.

So far all right, but up in Seattle where Mr. Beck formerly was absolute boss, this co-operation took an unexpected turn. He co-operated with capital, and business suddenly began to co-operate back with the result that, businessmen became union organizations, compelling their men to join unions lest the stores and plants be embargoed for maintaining the open shop.

COZY RELATIONSHIP

This brought unions and businessmen into a very cozy relationship under the government of a city administration which was elected and controlled by Mr. Beck. Not all business, of course, but enough of business to run things in co-operation with the blue-eyed, patriotic Elks and Duce. Pressed the advantage to regulate competition and maintain prices at a high level through a measure amounting to an informal licensing system similar in effect to that which is used in Fascist Italy. A businessman who plays ball with a union under a dictatorship naturally expects the union to play ball with him. Mr. Beck did not do these things officially. They were done by businessmen who, by yielding to the demands of labor, had become fair-haired boys of the regime and partners in power.

Two much commoner means close pricing and price cutting, and the unions held a regulatory authority in their power to boycott and picket any business which intruded on the zone or undercut the prices of a house in going.

FRANK AS A CHILD

Mr. Beck is as frank as a child in his assertion and exercise of the right and power to "crucify" any business. "Crucify" is his own word for the operation. Sometimes he finds it no shame to say so to an industry which is trying hard to co-operate but can't for reasons beyond its control. He boasts that he "crucified" the brewers of California in the north-west because the brewery workers in California would not surrender to his union of teamsters, the brewery truckmen who belong to the brewery workers union by prior right.

It is also true that these men are teamsters, but it is also true that brewery workers are older than the teamsters and held jurisdiction over the brewery truckmen from the start. The American Federation of Labor repeatedly awarded Mr. Beck jurisdiction the brewery workers refused to yield, and Mr. Beck now boasts that the blameless brewery firms of California are embargoed in the important northwestern field of interstate commerce by his command.

To be sure, this does not reveal the spirit of co-operation, but Mr. Beck also boasts that in his own judgment he co-operated with the local breweries by taking them over and operating them entirely. He is inclined to think that this was rather patriotic and constructive of him and to overlook the assumption of an authority not ordinarily conceded to any power, including the government.

JOBS FOR TEAMSTERS

Now, in California, Mr. Beck is eager to co-operate with the trucking firms. His primary purpose is to make jobs for teamsters, but the effect of his ultimatum against the California farmers would be to banish from their own roads in their own state. Mr. Beck has decreed that no farmer may haul store goods back from the city to the rural districts for his neighbor or anyone except himself. The neighbor or other person must pay a trucking company to do this hauling even though many farm trucks ride back empty from the market.

The trucking firm will hire teamsters and will be very co-operative with Mr. Beck in return for the chance to make a dollar. There remains a small matter of enforcement of this decree issued to the California farmers by a resident of the state of Washington. The exact methods of enforcement have not been determined, but if you were a farmer how would you like to find sand in your gears or razor cuts in your tires or have an accident, and break a leg? Mr. Beck, of course, is innocent of such thoughts, but teamsters are an abrupt and rugged lot and an executive cannot be held strictly accountable for the impulsive acts of individuals, can he.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

MARCH 28, 1913

DAYTON.—Fire that broke out in the submerged central part of this city late today burned many blocks of buildings and threatened the remainder of the business section. Communications between the East and West were still severed today as trains tried in vain to force their way through the flooded districts in Indiana and Ohio. The death toll could not be estimated, but financial loss was expected to reach more than $100,000,000, with a run up to Oregon and Washington dependent on the political situation.

Work aimed at completion of a double track from Los Angeles to Santa Ana was to be started by the Pacific Electric today. The double track now ends at Stanton, and yesterday a large number of teams and a large force of men were moved to a point just this side of Stanton to begin the construction.

Ninety-five members of the Associated chambers of commerce met in the Elks hall last night for the annual election of officers, during which W. A. Zimmerman, Santa Ana, was named president. Lew H. Wallace, Newport, vice-president, and J. C. Metzger, Santa Ana, secretary. The chambers also launched a drive to raise funds for relief of flood, fire and tornado sufferers in the Middle West.

Remarkable Remarks

I will not write plays to order. Once a dramatist does that, he's finished.—Paul Vincent Carroll, Scotch washer who wrote a current Broadway stage success.

Fifty per cent of cancer is curable, but we are not curing more than 15 per cent today.—Dr. Mary L. Lakeham, New York state commander of the Women's Field army.

The President and the senate sponsors of the bill (administration reorganization) frankly admit that no reduction of consequence in expenses or economy is anticipated.—U. S. Senator Byrd, Virginia.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

I wish these foreign countries would settle their disputes and settle down. I'm afraid if we keep on hearin' 'em so much about their troubles over there, it's gonna get us nervous on this side, too. People are a whole lot like chickens. They'll go along quietly in a bunch, pickin' up corn but the minute they get excited, they all scatter out.

I went to get a job down home one time, and the merchant says "I hope you'll stay with me—the last fella I had on this job stayed 43 years and quite." I says "What did he quit for?" and the merchant says "Well, he was one of them nervous, excitable fellas that wanted to be on the 'Go all the time'." (Copyright, 1938)

FDR Will Tour California, Also Other Coast States if Politics Calls; McAdoo Slated for Envoy

WASHINGTON.—The Pacific coast is sure to see President Roosevelt this summer or fall. He definitely plans to visit California and may extend his tour to include Oregon and Washington. He spent several days in those two states last year but did not get down to California. This year his goal will be California, with a run up to Oregon and Washington dependent on the political situation.

These states undoubtedly will be included in his itinerary if it looks as if the New Deal candidates need boosting.

Roosevelt contemplates a tour the entire length of California. He will dedicate the O'Shaughnessy dam at the Hetch-Hetchy project in the northern section of the state and has promised Representative Ed V. Iac to participate in similar ceremonies for the San Diego civic center.

He also plans to inspect the great naval establishment and air base near Los Angeles. In addition, there will be a number of stops at smaller cities between San Francisco and the southern metropolises.

The West coast visit will be the fourth the President has made since 1932, when he toured Washington, Oregon and California in his first White House campaign.

MISS PERKINS' COOK

Madame Secretary Perkins has been doing quite a bit of entertaining this winter to rectify her reputation as most unpopular member of the cabinet. So far she has been very successful, but her cook may yet do it for her—though not through her culinary skill.

It happened that Miss Perkins was having a dinner party at her home when suddenly it was disrupted by loud squeals from the kitchen. Miss Perkins hurriedly excused herself, found her cook darning up and down with joy.

"Glorious, glorious," Miss Perkins' culinary artist squealed, "I've won a fortune. I played a love-shot today and I just heard that I won $290."

Relieved and amused, Miss Perkins brought her cook in to tell the glad tidings to the guests. Next day the story was all over the capital. Since then government officials have been calling the cook for good tips on the bangtails.

REASSURING

Senator William Gibbs McAdoo's continued silence on whether he will run for re-election this year has given rise to rumors that he will not be a candidate, but instead will accept an appointive job. One such possibility is the ambassadorship to Mexico.

One newspaper which speculated on this was clipped by McAdoo and sent to Ambassador Joseph Daniels with a jocular letter assuring Daniels he had no designs on the job. Replying in a similar vein, Daniels wrote the California senator:

"I certainly appreciate your comforting words, Mac. They put my mind at ease. I must confess I was a little worried because I recalled how when we were members of the Wilson cabinet, every time one of our colleagues had to leave Washington he would call out a marine guard and nail down his job, for fear that when he got back he would find you had gobbled it up."

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent discussion of our problems is immensely useful. #### BLAMES ALLIES

To the Editor: All this mad rage of the former allies against Germany is rank hypocrisy and stupidity! What they are now so violently abusing Germany of, they are alone responsible for! Our late Senator Knox, formerly secretary of state, said in the senate, "The Versailles treaty, this puny peace, is the most inhuman and cruelest document in recorded history."

"The great majority of the Austrians are just as German in their feelings as the Germans in Germany." So stated the great old Field Marshal Count Radezyk in 1849, when after the battles of Custoza and Novara, Prussian guard officers sent him their congratulations. This just-accomplished union of Germany and Austria should be an occasion of rejoicing, rather than of alarm.

Austria was on the verge of another revolution. The blood spilled at the former revolution rests on the heads of her despoilers.

PETER SCHNOOR.

What Other Editors Say

BLUE MONDAY

Sing. If you can't sing, whistle. If you can't whistle, pucker up your lips and maybe somebody will come along and kiss you. Anyhow, brighten up.

The world is not as bad as you think it is. Don't let your lip drag on the ground; you may step on it and trip. In these lean days, laugh and grow fat. The reducing fad is past.

If your taxes are too heavy, be thankful you have something to pay taxes on. If your bank account is low, be comforted that if the institution goes bust, you will lose little. If food prices are higher than you think they ought to be, at least you get more for the produce you raise. If you are reduced to two meals a day, you will be healthier with a smaller waistline. So be thankful.

If you haven't a dime to your name, at least you have no worry about a bandit holding you up. You can show the insides of your pockets and become a vanishing American. If your best girl has jilted you, there is still room for cheer; the hold-up boys will never catch you necking by the side of the road.

Has it been a hard winter? Let not the light die out of your eyes; you are living in Los Angeles and the winters are never hard here. You may lack a topcoat, but you don't have to fill up a yawning coal bin. What if stocks are the lowest they have been in years? Now is a good time to buy. They can't go anyplace but up. You may be down on your uppers; be thankful you have the downers.

Your candidate may not be elected; but at least that relieves you of responsibility. Now you can blame it on the other fellow. Candidates have a way of failing to make good.

If you can't go to Hawaii, be thankful you don't have to go to Honduras.

So sing!

HOW TO GREET SPRING

After so much shocking news from many parts of the world we are glad to think about how the people in the little Southern California town of San Juan Capistrano greet the arrival of spring.

A town festival celebrates the return of the swallows, which for 162 years have marked their summer in and about the mud nests under the eaves of the old Spanish mission. Unfailingly, through all that time, the swallows of San Juan Capistrano have come winging in over the Pacific from some unknown winter resort on St. Joseph's day. Each fall, always on the same date in October, they fly away again.

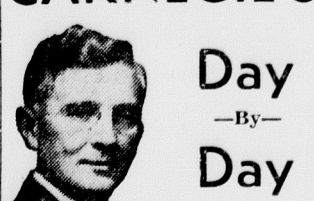

And so St. Joseph's day finds the people of the mission town dressed in their best, their outdoor tables spread with food and wine, their fiddles tuned and their dance floor waxed for the festive day. Some day, when the world is cured of its fears and madness, it will find time—as San Juan Capistrano does—to celebrate such really important events as the springtime return of the swallows.—S. F. News.

INNOVATIONS

In nine out of ten offices or shops let some one propose that a method or process be radically changed and what happens? The suggestion is immediately opposed by almost everyone. Instead of an attitude that says, "Well, let's try this new way, perhaps it is better than the old one," there is a flood of reasons why it cannot possibly be practical.

The habitual attitude of most human beings is resistance to change. That is why an industry is seldom revolutionized from the inside. There are few exceptions. The cotton gin, which revolutionized cotton weaving, was invented by Eli Whitney, a lawyer. Richard Arkright, whose spinning machinery was epoch-making, was a barber. James Hargraves, whose spinning jenny increased the output of cotton thread eight times over, was an illiterate hand spinner. He was driven out of Lancashire and his machinery destroyed by fellow spinners with closed minds. Every innovation makes its way

CARNEGIE'S

Day
—By—
Day
Philosophy

You've heard of "the old lady from Dubuque." Well, this story is about the girl from Dubuque. (Dubuque, as you know, is in Iowa.)

Her name was Honore Prendergast and she wanted to be a trained nurse. Most of all she wanted to go to Chicago to study, but there was a chuck-hole—money. Finally, she raised it, went to Chicago, studied, then came back to work in the hospital in Dubuque. Everything was going smoothly—until toothache hit her. But it was not just an ordinary, everyday toothache. Two of her wisdom teeth began to act up. Two, mind you.

SO TROUBLESOME

They became so troublesome that she decided to have them out, and went to an expert at the Michael Reese hospital.

It was pretty serious, but she went through with it. When it was over, her face was swollen, her jaw was out of shape, and she was far from being the good looking girl she had been in Dubuque.

She was staying with a friend, and the friend's beau came to call. "Look here," he said to Honore, "you come along, and take a ride with us. The air'll do you good."

Honore protested. Go out in public! Let people look at that pumpkin-shaped face. But her friend said if Honore didn't go she would stay home with her. Honore wouldn't spoil her friend's pleasure. She went along.

ANOTHER IDEA

Then the young man had another idea. "Say, I've got a friend! We'll stop and pick him up. A swell guy, interested in entertainment. He's going to get somewhere."

His words made no appeal to Honore—and the idea of serving as entertainment was the last thing she wanted to do. She said so—emphatically!

The jolly young man insisted. He drove to his friend's home, darted in and fetched out his pal. Honore was in for it. It was a situation she could not prevent. However, she made up her mind that instead of neutering, she'd have a good sport all the way through. When the second young man appeared on the scene, she greeted him with a puffy smile.

YES, YES, IT WAS

He looked at her and gasped. He looked again, gulped, and stared. Was it Yes—yes, it was. Despite those swollen features, he recognized a playmate of former days and one he had been searching for with no success. Her second look told her he was someone that she had wanted to see, too.

Well, perhaps you have guessed it. She married Don Ameche!

Don't overlook the value of your spare time. John Wanamaker once said that the little schooling he said that the little schooling he had was well acquired in a very much the same way that a modern locomotive takes on water.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

NEW YORK.—It's a good thing evolutionary man did not descend from a plant, instead of an animal. Otherwise vitamin B might be strange things to him. Probably sprout roots, maybe make his hair grow.

The power of the vitamin in plants has been discovered by three California Institute of Technology botanists, E. W. Went, James Bonner and G. C. Warner. They experimented first with auxins.

These are plant hormones, chemicals manufactured by plants. When a plant is dipped in one, it grows roots on that part. Even the stem near the top above the ground will put out a batch of roots.

To auxin the Californians added aneurin, a form of vitamin B1. This is the nerve vitamin for human beings. But in plants it doubled the number of roots. Where auxin alone would add eight roots, the vitamin increased the count to 16.

Other "essentials" of man's health also showed ability to increase roots. These were some of the amino-acids. The acids are manufactured by human digestive systems from food. There are more than 20 of them.

The Californians predict that the vitamin will become important in plant nurseries.
